The Curriculum

- All children will be respected and their individuality and potential recognised, valued and nurtured. Activities and the use of play equipment offer children opportunities to develop in an environment free from prejudice and discrimination. Appropriate opportunities will be given to children to explore, acknowledge and value similarities and differences between themselves and others.
- We aim to show awareness of the diverse background that families come from. Festivals from many cultures will be included in the curriculum and will be sensitively referred to without indoctrination of any specific faith.
- Before introducing a festival which the adults in the group are unfamiliar with we will endeavour to obtain appropriate advice from people to whom the festival is a familiar one.
- Parents will be given prior knowledge of a religious festival and will be respected if they decide to withdraw from such an activity.
